

Create and Edit Forms

The forms development software available from Medirex provides a seamless approach to delivering output commonly called "Print on Demand". The forms themselves, although electronic, look as professional or more professional than the originally outsourced preprinted forms. This application allows for easy management of editing and deployment into a live production environment. Forms created in this software can be used as a print on demand application and or stored for use in the "Electronic Forms Manager" or EFM.
